

VOTE JON FOR WARWICK SNOW MERCH

POWER - M8 I have many powers, such as my innate ability to make dope looking army skins (cheers DoW) and fix ugly looking things (looking at you Skyrim, also you Fallout New Vegas). But yeah, spending most of my childhood doing designs for video games and fixing textures to the point I cant play them anymore, and some cool-ass emblems for CoD, I got some creative eyes. I also designed an entire play set, costumes the whole shebang (fuck you ib drama)

TIME - I did the IB, I survived, so my time management is pretty damn snazzy. If that fails, I have like 12 contact hours a week so lots of 'optional' reading, what better way to procrastinate than designing some god damn t-shirts!?!?!?!?

SOUL SWAG - I wear clothes like 80% of the time and someone once asked where I got my jacket from, so that's something??? I bought the boonie, so I must be cool, right?

REALITY - in reality (get it??) I've worked in a library which is kinda sucky, defo gained some skills there, customer management, working with different branches, trying not to tell the old lady to fucking google it when she asks you how to print, yk the usual stuff. Also, love some decent fucking food, and fancy food looks great, so got an eye for detail there too. You ever played sports? I have, and designing tour kit is the best ever which is why I always had an input.

MIND - willing to dedicate a massive amount of time to learning Illustrator, and looking forward to it, if given the chance. That shit looks fun, and ngl, designing shit is fun too.

SPACE - Not the fastest on the slopes, but I can churn out ideas like butter, and we got some already there, what else do you need on the slopes - flasks, if supreme can do bricks why can't we?!?!?!?

WARWICKSNOW PRESENTS: THE MERCH-FINITY GAUNTLET

Yk whats really cool, being on warwicksnow exec, and, some would say I'm perfectly balanced, as all things should be, therefore I'm the perfect person for the job. The hardest choice requires the strongest wills which is why I've decided to enjoy uni whilst being on the most ice cold exec on campus (actual quote from OutKast).

